

London Policing College Introduction Pack

The London Policing College has considerable UK policing expertise and experience of delivering police education programmes around the world. As vice chair of the International Forum for Police Education Cooperation and leading the British Council UK – China – Belt and Road Initiative (BRI) partnership programme, they bring international insights, including:

- partnerships with 8 Universities in the Peoples Republic of China, the Royal Thai Police Academy, The Police Academy of Cambodia and the Naif Arab University for Security Sciences (Saudi Arabia)
- experience of delivery in the United Arab Emirates, China, Thailand, Palestine, South Africa, Trinidad and Tobago, Europe and America
- 75 short courses delivered abroad to over 7,500 officers around the world, participation in International conferences on subjects including cybercrime, police legitimacy, police education, public order policing
- Summer schools and specialist programmes delivered to foreign students (480 over the past 6 years) in the UK on subjects including: Public Order, Cyber Crime, Police Modernisation and Leadership, Police Financial Management, Food and Drug Security, Roads Policing, Policing Public Disorder, Crime Management and Investigation, Governance and Accountability, Youth Crime

The team, of 140 Associates, are selected as experts in policing and include Chief Officers, operational leaders and tactical specialists. With over 3,000 years policing service between them, they bring their operational experience and insights (15 are holders of the Queens Police Medal, between them they have several hundred commendations and recognitions for meritorious service) and a commitment to continual professional development (attending and participating in conferences, research programmes, supporting operational officers and membership of professional bodies). The team bring with them considerable experience of policing, current involvement in developing, designing and delivering policing in the UK and across the world, and are involved in police education from recruits through to senior officers.

In partnership with the University of West London, they have in the past year delivered a series of conference's ranging from Violence in the UK (Mapping the Landscape of Violence) and the 1st UK International conference on Police Education with over 100 attendees from 10 countries and representing 35 police education institutions between them.

VISION

Fair and ethical police services protecting human rights in every community and country. We are a growing company creating a catalyst for positive change. We select the places where we work to maximise and influence changes in behaviour working with police and communities committed to improving the safety of each member of the community.

‘The great aim of education is not knowledge but action’. Herbert Spencer

MISSION

Empowering police to provide services for all members of society in line with Human Rights improving everyone’s safety and security

We seek opportunities with police and community groups aspiring to develop policing and justice systems to directly benefit people in local communities. Our activity is focussed to ensure our decision making is ethically sound and we support the development of human rights. We design programmes in collaboration with partners, always cognisant of the cultural and operational environment. Our aim is to make individuals and communities safer and more secure using the latest evidence from research and evaluation of what works in policing.

‘We believe that the community are the police and the police are always part of the community’. Robert Peel
